RE-ENTRY VISA

WHEN YOU NEED A RE-ENTRY PERMIT

A re-entry permit should be used only if you have a single entry Tourist Visa or a single entry Non Immigrant Visa. If you are on a Non Immigrant Retirement Visa, you will need a re-entry permit only after you have received your one-year extension.

A re-entry permit is valid throughout the length of your visa extension (an extension is obtained at an Immigration Office inside of Thailand whereas a visa is obtained from a Royal Thai Embassy or Consulate outside of Thailand). If you get a new extension (applicable to single entry visas) your re-entry permit will be voided and you must apply for a new one.

A multiple re-entry permit is only cost-effective if you have received a nine-month extension on single entry Non Immigrant Business or a one-year extension on a Non Immigrant Retirement Visa. Otherwise, apply for a single entry re-entry permit as needed.

If you have a Non Immigrant Visa and leave the country on a re-entry permit, your 90-day check-in count restarts at 'Day 1' when you re-enter Thailand.
