Guides to writing citations and references

1. Reference

The manuscript should be prepared in APA (American Psychological Association) style enumerated below:

1.1 In-Text Citation - Signal Phrase

The text is introduced by a signal phrase that contains the author's last name and followed by the publication year in parenthesis.

For example,

Sayarakwit (2019) argues that we can change our habits, . . .

... Gartner et. al. (1990) stated that the educational concept is an entrepreneur . . .

1.2 In-Text Citation - Parenthetical Phrase

The citation is placed at the end of the statement in parenthesis, consisting of the author's last name and followed by publication year and/or page number.

For example,

In some cases, vaccination caused illness rather than preventing the diseases. (Taylor, 2019)
Early onset results in a more persistent and severe course (Kessler, 2003)

The Summary Table of In-Text Citation
